

Press Release

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Date: October 10, 2007

Contact: Maria Aselage

Phone: (843) 225-0008

maria@hearsaycommunications.com

President of Citadel Enterprises Wins Shining Star Award

MOUNT PLEASANT, S.C. – The South Carolina Aging in Place Council awarded Pete Loy, President of Citadel Enterprises, a full service remodeling company, one of its Shining Star Awards. The award recognizes those who take extraordinary steps to help people stay in their homes as long as possible during their maturing years. “It was an honor to be recognized,” said Loy. “The South Carolina Aging in Place Council does a great community service and I’m glad to be a part of it.”

Mr. Loy won the award for assisting his neighbor, Caroline Legare. An aging Ms. Legare wanted to stay in her home; however, she had restricted mobility. Changes needed to be made to the interior to make it more safe and comfortable. The staff at Citadel Enterprises added handrails throughout the house, corrected hazardous wiring and spruced up the garage. Now, Ms. Legare can stay in her home. “It is extremely rewarding to help those who deserve and desire to live out their golden years in dignity and independence. I’m happy to know I made a difference in Ms. Legare’s life,” said Loy.

Pete Loy is one of only two area contractors who is a Certified Aging-in-Place Specialist. As a Certified -- more --

Aging- in-Place Specialist, Pete Loy has received training in the differing needs of the older population, specific aging-in-place modifications for the home and solutions to common barriers facing the maturing population. Citadel Enterprises is committed to helping aging adults make their lives more manageable and comfortable whether it's adding an interior elevator or making a bathroom alteration. Simple modifications can create the ease and comfort the aging population desire.

The South Carolina Aging in Place Council is a non-profit organization that advocates for people to prepare to remain in their residence independently, comfortably and safely.

###